1. Since the end of the war bacteriological research and the production and distribution of sera and vaccines in Yugoslavia has been controlled by a Central Institute in Belgrade. The (unknown) head of this Institute worked at Zemun until 1944 when he went to Belgrade.
2. The Vojvodina area has serum producing institutes at Zemun, Novi Sad, Subotica and two other places.
3. Of these the institute at Zemun is the most important; this station produces sera for Schweinepest, Schweinerotlauf, anthrax, tetanus and chicken-cholera as well as vaccines for sheep pox, anthrax, tuberculin and Mallein (sic). The other stations are concerned mainly with producing Schweinepest serum, of which 1,000 liters are used monthly during the summer in this area.
4. Dr. Mitscherlic has been working there since August 1945 as a prisoner of war, and since the end of 1947 as a civilian in charge of an (unknown) department.
5. In this area there are also State Veterinary Clinics at Kikinda, Beckerek, Pancevo and Novi Sad, but it is believed they have no connection with bacteriological institutes.
6. There are also serum producing stations in the area of Zagreb.
